If Microsoft gets away with this, and on the present course, it seems that way, the average citizen will not help but think he's been abandoned by the Megopolis of Microsoft and their 'apparent' influence over Government. I believe the average guy will apply the rule of what's reasonable from this and lose respect for the lawful settlement of such issues. this will be an irreversible trend and things such as piracy will mushroom.

Don't reward them for clearly breaking the law!!
